

DEPARTMENT FACULTY

Betsy Craig '77

Professor of Theatre & Communication Studies

Andrew Harvey, Ph.D.

Professor of English

David Hogsette, Ph.D.

Professor of English and Writing Program Director

Adam Loretto '05, Ph.D.

Assistant Professor of English

Joshua Mayo, Ph.D.

Assistant Professor of English

H. Collin Messer, Ph.D.

Professor of English

Eric Potter, Ph.D.

Professor of English

Kristen Waha, Ph.D.

Assistant Professor of English

“The Grove City English program felt like a greenhouse, rich with the light and nutrients I needed to grow. My professors walked us through literature as the study of what it means to be human, seeing ourselves as both Fallen creatures who need grace and image-bearers of God who desire His goodness. Their teaching gave me the insight and practical skills (such as critical thinking and communication) to step into post-graduation life rooted in truth and wisdom and reaching joyfully for whatever God calls me to do.

— Alicia Pollard '17

Grove City College is a highly ranked, nationally recognized private liberal arts and sciences college that equips students to pursue their unique callings through an academically excellent and Christ-centered learning and living experience distinguished by a commitment to affordability and promotion of the Christian worldview, the foundations of a free society and the love of neighbor. Established in 1876, the College is a pioneer in independent private education and accepts no federal funds. It offers students degrees in 60 majors on a picturesque 180-acre campus north of Pittsburgh, Pa. Accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education, Grove City College is routinely ranked as one of the country's top colleges by U.S. News & World Report, The Princeton Review and others based on academic quality and superior outcomes.

DEPARTMENT DESCRIPTION

The Department of English is dedicated to the study of the great works of English, American and world literature. The approach of the department is to read the literature for its explorations of the fundamental questions regarding the nature of God and man, the meaning of moral choice, the purpose of life, and the possibility of salvation. The goal is to equip students to discover this truth wherever it may be found, but especially in the enduring works of the literature of Western Civilization. The department prepares students for a wide variety of careers, as well as graduate and professional study.

MAJORS

English

The English major is for students who love to read, discuss and write about great literature. Students complete 39 credit hours of course requirements in addition to the College core curriculum.

English major leading to (7-12) teaching certification in English

In addition to the 86 credit hours of major coursework, students participate in real-life teaching situations during field experiences and student teaching.

English major leading to (7-12) teaching certification in English and Communication

In addition to the 92 credit hours of major coursework, students participate in real-life teaching situations during field experiences and student teaching.

MINORS

Theatre

Students must fulfill 24 credit hours of course requirements to complete the minor, including 12 credit hours from the theatre core and 12 credit hours from elective options.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTAL AREAS OF INTEREST

Students have many opportunities to get involved in English-related activities. Students can write for the campus newspaper, The Collegian, contribute to our two literary magazines, The Echo and The Quad, and work on productions in our award-winning theatre program. The department also hosts an annual Christian Writers Conference to focus on a writer or theme of interest in the relation between literature and Christianity.

UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH OPPORTUNITIES

Students may choose to participate in the Honors Seminar in their junior or senior year, for which they produce a 35-50 page thesis involving advanced independent research on a project of literary analysis.

INTERSHIPS

Internships for students majoring in English typically involve work done off campus under the supervision of a professional in an English or communication related field. Recent internships have included work in public relations, advertising, library and information sciences, journalism and publishing. Internships are most often completed during the summer and are considered a valuable stepping-stone to careers following graduation. English majors can also earn academic credit for completing internships.

CAREER AND GRADUATION OPPORTUNITIES

Many students majoring in English go on to graduate school in a wide range of areas, including English, law, library & information science, education and theology. In recent years, students have gone on to schools such as New York University, University of Virginia, Baylor University, Boston University, Case-Western Reserve, University of Notre Dame, Oxford University, University of Pittsburgh, Carnegie Mellon University and Duquesne University.

CONTACT

Joshua Mayo, Ph.D.

Chair and Assistant Professor of English

724-264-4712 | MayoJA@gcc.edu | www.gcc.edu/eng

100 Campus Drive, Grove City, Pennsylvania 16127